

Thank you for your interest in joining our team. We are working on a huge project and are looking for developers who want to form long term relationships. We expect this to be a minimum of 12 months, and possibly a permanent position.

We have received many applications and have narrowed our search down to 20 people. In efforts to further narrow our selection, we have designed a sample test task that will allow you to showcase your skills. If you are still interested in joining our team, please reply to this message and tell us how many hours this task will take you. We will pay you for that many hours at the hourly rate you quoted. Please note that you are competing with other great developers, and we will be evaluating every detail of this sample project.
